DO YOU REMEMBER YOUR FAVORITE summer? Was it filled with mischief, adventure, and amazing discoveries?

THIS NARRATIVE IS AN ENGAGING look at the escapades of Leah Twist, a plucky, mischievous young girl, during the action-packed summer of 1905. Lee's (as this Tomboy's family nicknames her), curiosity and keen mind get her out of many scrapes her two older brothers get her in. Her encounters with a crazy kitten, a biscuit bowl in a muddy field, a booby-trapped office at the National Cash Register, and the now-famous Wright Brothers and their fantastic flying machine, give an educational and fun glimpse into the lives of some of the most captivating individuals our country has produced.

THIS EASY, EDUCATIONAL AND entertaining book is a perfect fit for teachers and students alike. It is filled with glimpses into the summer that the Wright brothers spent developing practical flight. A glossary is included so the curious can learn which events and people were real. Geared towards young readers between nine and thirteen, this work of historical fiction perfectly blends history and fun in a warm-hearted story that fosters a love of reading and learning.

~ Venture out with Lee and her brothers in their quest for summertime fun!

~ Follow the Twists in their search for the quirky Wright brothers.

~ Take flight with Lee on an accidental encounter with the Wright brother's aeroplane.

About the Author

BORN AND RAISED IN DENVER, Colorado, long time Ohio resident Josie Daval has enjoyed a lifelong passion with the written word. Josie is a wife, mother, Christian minister, and has had her share of adventures working as a professional outdoor guide, rock-climbing instructor and whitewater rafting guide. She's moved from telling stories around a campfire to crafting stories for young people: stories that are sure to spark a love for reading.
