WHAT IF A GIRL FURROWS some Catholic brows in her attempt to become the first girl to serve Mass, in archaic 1972? What if she also works at a county fair for an ex-con named Turtle and takes her parents' car around the block, hitting three parked cars and a truck, all before her fourteenth birthday? What if that girl grows up so addicted to both fun and its by-product, trouble, that she becomes an expert at both?

SHE THEN BECOMES A SMART and unorthodox woman who refuses to let the daily trials of life take away her independence, identity, or sense of humor. From the time of her precocious perception of how her Catholic church really functioned, DC has had a knack for seeing through the b.s.

HER SCAM INVOLVING A FAKE GQ business card, plenty of alcohol, a camera, and many engorged male egos gave her a bittersweet satisfaction of finally being able to "play the player."

THIS FUNNY YET POIGNANT memoir is a kind of how-to (or how not to) book; for all the women who have had their hearts broken, this book shows how to get back up after every fall.

FOR ANYONE WHO WANTS TO learn to dance as if no one is watching, this book shows where to find a table and your own special song.

AND FOR ALL THOSE WHO ARE just trying to have a relaxing and refreshing vacation, this book shows how to recover from just about anything life has to throw at you; with a good book, a cold beverage, a good beach, and a sense of humor, you, too, can be an irreverent woman.
